Dear Cowell College Student:

I am taking advantage of this mailing by Dean Shontz to add several words, some of apology and some of explanation and information. The names of the authors you are being asked to read were, in my letter, inexplicably divided by commas, thus "James, Joyce," "Oscar, Lewis." The commas of course shouldn't have been there. I am sure most of you have caught the errors and I hope they have not inconvenienced you. Perhaps they make the useful point that we are entirely human. Our corrected reading list is:

James Joyce, A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man.
Compass Books. $1.45

Oscar Lewis, The Children of Sanchez. Vintage Books. $2.95
(Please note: we erred in listing the publisher in our letter.)

Friederich Nietzsche, Toward a Genealogy of Morals in Birth of Tragedy and the Genealogy of Morals. Anchor. $1.25

There is a sample trailer on the campus which you are welcome to visit. The bathroom facilities are awesome, quite the most impressive part of the trailer. If cleanliness is next to Godliness (which I doubt), you will have ample opportunity to be next to it.

Faculty members are arriving every few days. We had a picnic a few days ago on the campus with all the Cowell faculty and families who are in Santa Cruz. It seemed to my admittedly prejudiced eye that they have remarkably attractive wives and a large number of very handsome children.

Cordially,

Page Smith
